However, it is not as simply as all that, it depends on what you feel your time is worth. The only way to understand that is to look closer at paid surveys and how they work.

How do legitimate paid survey sites make money?

Lets make it clear from the start, if the survey companies don't make money you don't make money. They are running a business and the business model involves surveys for market research. Of course, we all want to know how we get paid. So, most of you are sitting in front of your computers asking, "why are my views and opinions worth so much money?" It is a good question and vital in understanding why the survey industry has become so popular and profitable.

It simply comes down to market research.

Companies all over the world are looking to have the edge over their competition by predicting trends and consumer attitudes. The market research companies earn up to $5000 for about 200 surveys conducted online or via email. For participating in the survey you will be offered points, coupons or a small amount of cash. The fact is very little of the $5000 will end up in the customers pocket.

Are online paid surveys jobs worth all the effort?

Well, that is a difficult question and depend how much you think your time and energy is worth. The questions you will be asked to answer in a survey could be a few multiple choice questions or a few hundred. This means that you could working all day to complete a survey.

If you manage to find a legitimate company that offers real money then the average rate will be about $0.50-$5.00 per survey. This doesn't sound a lot of money. Also, some of the company have confusing, if barely legal payment schemes that are totally deceptive in almost every part of their business. This includes, advertising the company and how payments are made. Often you will believe you are going to get paid, then realizing the the earnings will be the value of let say 100$ instead of actual cash.

After you have been scammed a few times, many say to themselves that surveys are just not worth the time or effort. However, if you are lucky enough to find a honest and legitimate survey company you may indeed make some extra cash. For some people this is a great way to make extra beer money or if they do a night shift somewhere where they are sitting around all night, but need to be awake. Some do surveys when they are sitting at home watching TV and doing a survey or two at the same time. Others use the money to buy extra stuff for their kids. So, for them its a opportunity to make a little extra and that is OK.
